23rd-24th AUGUST 2024

FROM THE DIRECTOR'S DESK

"If your actions inspire others, to dream more, learn more. You are a leader." - John Quincy Adams
Dear Delegates, Faculty, and Organizers,

It is my immense pleasure to congratulate you all for the noteworthy collaboration for the conduction of GBNMUN with resounding success. As we bring this remarkable Model United Nations conference to a close, I want to appreciate and bless each and every one of you. Over the past two days, you have not only debated and discussed pressing global issues but have also demonstrated the power of diplomacy, collaboration, and critical thinking.

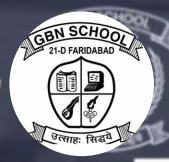

GBNMUN has been a true validation to the talent and commitment of our young leaders. Your ability to engage in meaningful dialogues, propose innovative solutions, and respect diverse perspectives is awe inspiring. It gives me immense pride to see our students embracing such a vital platform, which mirrors the complexities of the real world.

I do appreciate the deepest appreciation to the organizing team, faculty advisors, and volunteers who have toiled hard to make this event magnanimous. Your dedication to create an enriching experience for all participants is commendable.

Encouraging you to carry forward the lessons you've learned and the resolutions who have created & tailored. Remember, the skills and values you have honed here, will serve you well in your future endeavors, both as students and as global citizens.

This MUN has turned out to be memorable and impactful event. I look forward to seeing the incredible contributions you will bring forth towards global peace in the future.

Best Wishes

FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

"A leader is like a shepherd. He stays behind the flock, letting the most nimble go out ahead, whereupon others follow, not realising that all along they are being directed from behind."
-Nelson Mandela

Dear Delegates, Honoured Guests, and Members of the GBN School Community,

Quoting exceptional success of GBNMUN , I heartily applaud the infinite talent, passion, and intellect that has been on display in last two days. It is truly inspiring to see young minds efficiently engaging into global issues that shape our world.

Each of you, in your roles as delegates, chairs, and committee members, has contributed to the triumphant success of this event. You have debated, negotiated, and, most importantly, listened to one another, embodying the spirit of diplomacy and collaboration that lies at the heart of the United Nations.

Your thought provoking strategies whether navigating complex geopolitical landscapes or in finding common ground amidst differing viewpoints—will serve you well in all your future endeavors. You have validated that the next generation of leaders is not only capable but also committed to creating a more just, peaceful, and sustainable world.

I extend my best wishes and blessings to the organizing committee, faculty advisors, and volunteers who have worked tirelessly to ensure that every aspect of this MUN was meticulously planned and flawlessly executed. Your dedication and hard work has made this event a hallmark of excellence.

To our distinguished guests and mentors, your wisdom and insights have greatly enriched our discussions, providing invaluable guidance to our young delegates. We are deeply grateful for your intense involvement.

As we conclude this memorable event, I hope that each of you leaves with not just a sense of accomplishment, but also a renewed commitment to the values of cooperation, understanding, and global responsibility.

Thank you for making this MUN an unforgettable experience, and I wish you all continued success in your future journeys.

Best Wishes

FROM THE EDITOR IN CHIEF

Dear Esteemed Members and Participants,
As the Editor-in-Chief, it is both an honor and a privilege to extend my warmest greetings to each of you as we embark on the momentous occasion of GBN MUN'24.

In the spirit of excellence and diplomacy that defines this prestigious Model United Nations conference, I wish to commend your dedication and preparation. This assembly stands as a testament to the collective commitment to fostering global understanding and collaborative problem-solving. Your engagement in these deliberations underscores a profound dedication to addressing the complex challenges that our world faces today.

The role of MUN delegates extends beyond mere representation; it encompasses the art of negotiation, the rigor of research, and the diplomacy of discourse. As you navigate through debates and formulate resolutions, I encourage you to approach each session with a spirit of intellectual curiosity and mutual respect. Your contributions are not merely a reflection of your individual capabilities, but also a beacon of the collective resolve to advance meaningful dialogue. The editorial team and I are profoundly excited to witness the innovative solutions and insightful discussions that will emerge from your sessions. It is through your hard work and collaborative spirit that we shall strive towards a more cohesive and harmonious global community.

Thank you for your unwavering commitment to the values of diplomacy and cooperation. I wish you a rewarding and transformative experience at GBN MUN'24.

With The Highest Regards

FROM THE DIRECTOR GENERAL

Dear Delegates, Advisors, and Esteemed Guests,

It is with great pleasure and a deep sense of responsibility that I welcome you to the GBN Model United Nations Conference. As the Director General, I am honored to lead this gathering of bright minds, where the future leaders of our world come together to debate, discuss, and deliberate on some of the most pressing issues of our time.

Our conference is not just a simulation; it is a platform for innovation, diplomacy, and leadership. Each of you has the opportunity to engage with complex global challenges, develop your skills in negotiation and public speaking, and most importantly, foster a spirit of collaboration and mutual respect.

The world today faces unprecedented challenges, from climate change to global conflicts and humanitarian crises. Your participation in this conference signifies a commitment to understanding these issues and working towards sustainable solutions. It is my hope that through your engagement here, you will not only enhance your knowledge and skills but also ignite a passion for global citizenship that will guide you in your future endeavors.

I would like to extend my heartfelt gratitude to our dedicated team of organizers, the Secretariat, and our sponsors, whose hard work and support have made this event possible. I also want to thank the advisors and teachers who have guided our delegates in their preparations.

As we embark on this journey together over the next few days, I encourage you to challenge yourselves, be open to new perspectives, and above all, enjoy the experience. This is your opportunity to make a difference, and I have every confidence that you will rise to the occasion.

Warm regards,
Anshika Parashar
Director General

UNITED NATIONS ENVIRONMENT PROGRAM

Countries are intensifying their efforts to combat carbon emissions, a key driver of climate change. Portugal is advancing with renewable energy subsidies, stringent emissions standards, and investments in green technologies. Russia aims to cut emissions by 20%, while Spain targets a 50% reduction by 2030. Colombia focuses on the REDD program to preserve forests, and South Korea is implementing an Emissions Trading Scheme (ETS) to reduce carbon footprints through market-based incentives. These initiatives reflect a global commitment to mitigating climate impacts and transitioning to sustainable energy solutions, showcasing a united front in the fight against climate change.

ALL INDIA POLITICAL PARTIES MEET

In a recent assembly, the All India Political Parties Meet (AIPPM) engaged in a critical examination of the Directorate of Enforcement's (ED) accountability and justiciability in light of a series of recent controversies. Representatives from various political parties deliberated on allegations of overreach and misuse of power by the ED, debating the implications for democratic integrity and the rule of law in India.

Key discussions revolved around the necessity for transparent operational protocols and robust oversight mechanisms to ensure that the ED functions within its mandated legal framework while effectively tackling financial crimes. Participants proposed the establishment of independent review committees and enhanced judicial scrutiny to prevent potential abuses of power and to safeguard citizens' rights. The debate also touched upon the importance of depoliticizing investigative agencies to maintain public trust and uphold justice impartially.

Consensus emerged on the need for legislative reforms to clearly delineate the scope and limits of the ED's authority, alongside measures to increase institutional transparency and accountability. The meeting underscored the critical balance between empowering enforcement agencies to combat economic offenses and ensuring their actions are conducted fairly, responsibly, and within the bounds of constitutional provisions.

UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION FOR STATUS OF WOMEN

The United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (UNCSCW) recently convened to deliberate on pressing sexual and reproductive health concerns affecting women in developing countries, focusing particularly on the right to abortion. Delegates underscored the critical importance of accessible and comprehensive healthcare services as fundamental to women's empowerment and gender equality. Discussions highlighted the multifaceted barriers women face, including legal restrictions, cultural stigmas, and inadequate healthcare infrastructure, which collectively impede their reproductive rights and overall well-being.

The committee examined successful mitigation strategies implemented across various regions, such as community-based education programs, policy reforms, and international aid initiatives aimed at improving healthcare access. Emphasis was placed on the need for collaborative efforts between governments, NGOs, and international bodies to create supportive legal frameworks and enhance public health systems. The delegates advocated for evidence-based policies that respect women's autonomy and prioritize their health and safety. The session concluded with a call to action for increased funding, policy alignment, and grassroots engagement to ensure that reproductive rights, including safe and legal abortion services, are upheld and accessible to all women, irrespective of their socio-economic status or geographic location.

WORLD HEALTH ORGANISATION

The World Health Organization (WHO) conducted a critical session focused on establishing comprehensive preparedness protocols to effectively manage and mitigate future pandemics and epidemics. Health experts, policymakers, and representatives from member nations convened to share insights and develop strategies based on lessons learned from recent global health crises.

The session culminated in the drafting of a comprehensive framework outlining actionable steps for nations to bolster their health systems and collaborative networks. The proposed protocols aim to enhance global resilience against future health emergencies, ensuring prompt, coordinated, and effective responses to safeguard public health.

UNITED NATIONS HUMANS RIGHTS COUNCIL

The United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC) convened to deliberate on the pressing issue of universal citizenship rights for refugees, placing special emphasis on those affected by the ongoing Israel-Palestine conflict. Delegates from member states engaged in comprehensive discussions aimed at addressing the legal and humanitarian challenges faced by displaced populations seeking security and stability. Proposals included strengthening international cooperation to support host countries, implementing more inclusive and flexible asylum policies, and reinforcing global legal instruments that protect refugee rights. The discussions also highlighted the importance of addressing root causes of displacement through conflict resolution and sustainable development initiatives. The session concluded with a commitment to pursue collaborative strategies that uphold human rights and provide equitable solutions for refugees worldwide.

UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL

"North Korea and China are the biggest threats" declares the delegate of the United States. The conference revolved around the theme of 'Denuclearization efforts in the Korean peninsula.' North Korea defends itself saying it only uses nuclear weapons for 'deterrence'. "We are open with our nuclear activities" states North Korea. "We have clearly maintained that our objective is to deter an attack from hostile forces". They have also clearly outlined the circumstances in which they will use their nukes such as in case of fatal military attack against important strategic objects.

Meanwhile, countries that have chosen not to join the nuclear "non-proliferation" treaty yet ironically, they are some of the few nations actively pursuing or maintaining nuclear capabilities. This highlights the tension between the stated purpose of the NPT and the actions of the countries outside it. Alternatively, the delegate of the US stands their ground by clarifying that conventional weapons are allowed but nuclear weapons should be stopped. The US also, and only, plans to use its nuclear weapons for deterrence. Conclusively, the US answers, "Uranium sites must be prohibited to restrict easy access to nations in an attempt to build more 'nukes'".
